Students found the use of social annotation supported their learning and their engagement their course:

“It encouraged me to actually do the readings. It was also interesting to see what the other people in the class thought about the readings. It was nice knowing I wasn’t doing them alone.”

“I liked the program! Normally I hate reading, but it kept me interested.”